Revolution Begins in the Bedroom

Music by Tony Solitro
Libretto by Alice Eve Cohen

Program Note:

"Revolution Begins in the Bedroom" is the opening aria of Mrs. Satan and the Nasty Woman, an opera-in-progress by librettist Alice Eve Cohen and composer Tony Solitro, adapted from Cohen's play. The opera examines the roles of two women- Victoria Woodhull and Hillary Clinton- in the long path to a woman President.

Aria Premise: November 4, 1872. It's the day before the election. The Town Hall, NYC. Victoria Woodhull, the first woman to run for President, delivers an impassioned speech on free love and equal rights to a standing-room crowd of her supporters. She hears a hostile mob outside chanting "Lock her up!" Refusing to be silenced, Victoria is arrested and jailed for indecency.

Almost erased from the history books, Woodhull was a suffrage fighter, radical activist, stockbroker, clairvoyant, and free love advocate. Once hailed by Susan B. Anthony as "the new leader of our fight for Suffrage," Woodhull fell out of favor with suffrage leaders when she had the audacity to run for president. She was jailed right before the 1872 election.

- Alice Eve Cohen, librettist and Tony Solitro, composer

Text:

I'm plotting a Marriage revolution!
Waging war against the institution.

What is marriage but woman's legal bondage?
Her children belong to him.
Her body belongs to him.
As long as husbands own their wives,
Nothing will change in women's lives

The revolution begins in the bedroom!
A vote for love will set all of us free!

Yes, I'm a free lover, I believe in free love
The right to love whomever I may To love for as short or as long as I wish and find a new love every day

Black or white, woman or man, Christian, pagan, or Jew
I want to love you all,
and be loved by all of you.

Because I believe in sexual freedom
They call me Mrs. Satan...
They call me Jezebel...
If that's the cost of fighting for change
I'm proud to be called the Queen of Hell!

You can lock me up
but my thoughts are unbound,
my ideas are unchained...
Go on and lock me up,
but my words will be heard.
Yes, my voice will be heard.

Beyond the Power of Any to Deny

Music by Jessica Rudman

Text adapted from Susan B. Anthony

Program Note:

In 1872—long before the passage of the Nineteenth Amendment—Susan B. Anthony and fourteen other women voted in the presidential election. Anthony, the other women who voted, and the election inspectors who permitted them to do so were arrested. Prior to her trial, Anthony toured the towns near the courthouse, giving a speech titled “Is it a Crime for a U.S. Citizen to Vote?”

Anthony’s central argument stemmed from the premise that voting is a natural right of all citizens and is “beyond the power of any state to deny.” She drew on evidence from the Constitution as well as the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to make the case that she and her companions committed no crime in voting.

“Beyond the Power of Any to Deny” grew out of a desire to set excerpts (and eventually, a song cycle) from Anthony’s speech, and her ideas resonate strongly with the current struggles against voter disenfranchisement. An ardent abolitionist as well as a suffragist, Anthony believed that all citizens—regardless of gender, race, or other factors—have the right to vote. By emphasizing that underlying sentiment in the adapted text, my goal is to highlight the relevance of the argument for today’s society.

- Jessica Rudman, composer

Text:

Nowhere can you find a word in any of the grand documents left to us by the founders that assumes for government the power to create or confer rights. And nowhere is there the slightest permission to discriminate against the right of any class of citizens to vote.

It was we the people— not we the white male citizens, nor we the male citizens— but we the whole people who formed this Union. And we formed it not to give the blessings of liberty, but to secure them. Not for half of ourselves, and not for half of our posterity, but for the whole people, women as well as men.

No one denies that before governments were formed, each individual possessed the right to protect their own life, liberty, and property. And when one hundred people—or one million people— enter into a free government, they do not barter away their natural rights. And yet today, more than half this nation’s people are utterly powerless to blot from the statute— books an unjust law, or inscribe there a new and just one.

The moment you deprive a person of their right to a voice in the government you degrade them from the status of a citizen to that of a subject. And however destructive this government might become, a disfranchised class could neither alter nor abolish it. They are powerless subjects, serfs, or slaves. They are not citizens.

And it matters little to them whether their monarch be an individual tyrant or a fifteen-million-headed monster.

Her Sovereign Blackness a Beautiful Light

Music & lyrics by Kathryn Bostic

Program Note:

The pairing of suffrage-themed songs with excerpts from Letters That You Will Not Get began as an optional invitation for participants in AOP's Composers & the Voice (C&V) training program to create songs related to the Women's Suffrage Centennial; it expanded into a conversation about the necessity of including the success and struggles of the Women's Suffrage Movement, and evolved into the trio included here: two songs created during C&V, and a third by composer Kathryn Bostic, commissioned by AOP for soprano Jasmine Muhammad.

Bostic states,

"Her Sovereign Blackness a Beautiful Light' expresses the injustice and disenfranchisement Black women faced during the Women's Suffrage Movement. It was written to commemorate the presence, power, dignity and leadership of African American women suffragists long overlooked who helped pave the way for Equal Rights. During the formation of the Women's Suffrage movement and throughout its history, the blatant lack of acknowledgement of the huge and important contribution by African American women is a travesty that must be rectified. It is my hope that my song be a part of much needed action to heal and truth speak awareness that brings our overall community together."

- Mila Henry, music director and Kathryn Bostic, composer

Text:

I shine golden
From a mighty Love Supreme
And when my journey takes me to walk upon troubled land I shine golden Hosanna Hosanna

My ancestral temple holds a Light filled path
I trail blaze
I womb speak
My Brown mother, her mother and all before her
We Rise and shatter narrow ways of darkness

Her Sovereign Blackness a Beautiful Light
Her Sovereign Blackness a Beautiful Light

Mighty seeds are scattered from her sun kissed womb anointing our calling from my mother, her mother and all before her Deep from her center birthing Queens and Kings

So hear me now to right this wrong as history falsely claims no mention of our leadership, our fight for equal rights
Our Black skinned voices silenced
and kept far out of sight
and kept far out of sight
White suffragists demanding justice in word but not in deed
Our Black skinned voices silenced
so only they succeed
So hear me now to right this wrong in these United States
Black woman majesty a greater partner commanded equal rights
I stand above deception shining truth upon this stain
My sovereign Blackness a beautiful light

I am the opening of all fragile hearts long forgetful of strength long forgetful of Birthright
Sovereign Blackness a Beautiful Light
Sovereign Blackness a Beautiful Light
Her Sovereign Blackness a Beautiful Light

WAR GIRLS

There's the girl who clips your ticket for the train,
 And the girl who speeds the lift from floor to floor,
 There's the girl who does a milk-round in the rain,
 And the girl who calls for orders at your door.
 Strong, sensible, and fit,
 They're out to show their grit,
 And tackle jobs with energy and knack.
 No longer caged and penned up,
 They're going to keep their end up
 Till the khaki soldier boys come marching back. —Jessie Pope (British)

THE DANCERS

The floors are slippery with blood:
 The world gyrates too. God is good
 That while His wind blows out the light
 For those who hourly die for us—
 We still can dance, each night.

The music has grown numb with death—
 But we will suck their dying breath,
 The whispered name they breathed to chance,
 To swell our music, make it loud
 That we may dance,—may dance.

We are the dull blind carrion-fly
 That dance and batten. Though God die Mad from the horror of the light—
 the light is mad, too, flecked with blood,—
 We dance, we dance, each night —Edith Sitwell (British)

THE GIFT OF INDIA

Lo! I have flung to the East and West
 Priceless treasures torn from my breast,
 And yielded the sons of my stricken womb
 To the drum-beats of duty, the sabres of doom.
 Scattered like shells on Egyptian sands,
 They lie with pale brows and brave, broken hands,
 They are strewn like blossoms mown down by chance
 On the blood-brown meadows of Flanders and France.
 When your love shall offer memorial thanks
 To the comrades who fought in your dauntless ranks,
 And you honour the deeds of the deathless ones,
 Remember the blood of my martyred sons! —Sarojini Naidu (Indian)

WOMEN OF EUROPE

Women of Europe, when will your call ring out?
 Summer's glory was shattered by lightning—
 The lightning of the most frightful of all wars.
 Millions of women's hearts blaze up in anguish.
 Women of Europe, where is your voice?
 Are you only great in patience and suffering?
 Women of Europe, where is your voice that should be sowing seeds of peace?

- text by Lida Gustava Heymann, from A Group of Letters of the Warring Nations (Chicago: Woman's Peace Party, 1915)

NOT ONLY AN ARMY FIGHTS!

WOMAN 5

Not only an army fights!
 A whole nation must actively fight!
 We are all in the same boat,
 we share the same risks.
 Women must take the place of the men in doing real army work.
 Let us be thankful, we still have our two hands.
 Let us be thankful, and use them.

WOMAN 1

We go along a highway of grey stones, through green fields and lines of trees flung out as a screen against the sky.
 The very expression of peace —
 An immense quiet and serenity —
 It is all unspeakably beautiful.
 I am going straight into the horror of war.

WOMAN 2

If there is horror here you are not aware of it as horror.
 From the moment the doors close behind you,
 you are in another world...
 Before these multiplied forms of anguish what you feel — if there is anything of you left to feel — is not pity, it is so near adoration.
 If you are tired of the burden of self go into these great wards.
 You will find instant release.
 Their torment is your peace.

WOMAN 6

I have known every sound of his voice
 I have known every line of his face and every tuft of beard on his chin.
 No other measure of time

I SIT AND SEW

I sit and sew — a useless task it seems,
 My hands grown tired, my head weighed down with dreams —
 The little useless seam, the idle patch;
 Why dream I here beneath my homely thatch,
 When there they lie in sodden mud and rain
 Pitifully calling me, the quick ones and the slain?
 You need me, Christ! It is no roseate dream
 That beckons me—this pretty futile seam.
 It stifles me—God, must I sit and sew?

—Alice Dunbar-Nelson (American)

WOMAN 6 contd...

than the rhythm of his breathing,
 no mark or sign of time
 than the crescent of his eyelashes
 And I have known these things so long —
 I have known these things so long —
 I have known these things so long —
 Like a separate wound in my memory.

WOMAN 3

No one was fond of Rochard:
 he had only been there a few hours.
 He meant nothing to any one there.
 So Rochard died
 a stranger among strangers
 Many people to wait upon him, but no one there to love him.

ALL

We had 368;
 200 seriously wounded —
 Bleeding faster than we could cope with it —
 200 dangerously wounded,
 We had 368;
 We were full up by 2 a.m., a collision up the line,
 the line was blocked by dead horses.
 We had 368;
 All night we grappled with them.
 Two were dying at St. Omer;
 without a break we grappled with them.
 We had 368;
 Bleeding faster than we could cope with it —
 Two were dying at St. Omer
 But we kept the rest alive
 We kept the rest alive
 We kept the rest alive to Boulogne.

Founded in 1988, The American Opera Project (AOP) has been at the forefront of contemporary opera for over 30 years. In 2019, American Opera Projects became The American Opera Project. But we are still AOP. We are going beyond being a collection of projects and becoming a mission, a vision, an unending experiment – an experiment in storytelling with the central premise that each life is an operatic story waiting to be told – and each telling of that story is an operatic experience waiting to happen.

"Beyond the Power of Any to Deny" and "The Revolution Begins in the Bedroom" were created through The American Opera Project's Composers & the Voice program, a two-year, tuition-free fellowship for composers and librettists that provides experience writing for the voice and opera stage.
